Blessings Presented by Redeemer's Quilters

In the second year of a new tradition, Redeemer Lutheran Church in downtown Atlanta performed the “Blessing of the Quilts” in Fall, 2020 during a virtual service for the entire congregation. The blessing included a prayer of thanks for the devoted service, time, and talents of the quilters, plus prayers that they will continue to create beautiful messages of love to the people in our world. Redeemer has a rich history of supporting WELCA’s efforts through Lutheran World Relief to provide hundreds of quilts annually for over thirty years. The pandemic isolation in 2020 did not slow down the faithful and humble quilters one bit! Twelve of the over 300 quilts produced were on display during the recent service of blessing, with some pictured below.

Redeemer’s dedicated quilters create messages of God’s grace, hope, and comfort for those

INSPIRATIONAL LIFE

We remember Hilton Austin who passed away February 20, 2021 after a long battle with cancer.

Hilton was the SES Director of Advocacy, Chair of the Board of Directors Georgia Interfaith Public Policy Center and a friend and supporter of Women of the ELCA. We extend our condolences and prayers to Patti Austin and family at his passing.

(Quilting Angels continued from page 1) who may desperately be seeking the touch of our Lord. While the quilters are presently not gathering as a group, members are creating quilts in their homes, collecting supplies graciously donated by Redeemer members, and supporting and uplifting one another despite being physically apart.

One of the most exciting moments at each WELCA Convention for me is the announcement of how many tons of supplies will be shipped to those in need all over the world. The quilts are such a special part of this ministry because they provide the obvious goal of warmth and comfort --- but will also provide the less obvious functions of serving as a roof or a wall or a floor to someone's house, of being used as a bed on the floor, or being used to carry and embrace someone's child.

I hope we may each share this blessing for the quilts and quilters in our congregations and support this valuable ministry in any way we can.

Almighty God, it is your will to bring comfort and help to the distressed. Bless these quilts wherever they may be used that they may provide warmth, security, and hope to those who have experienced tragedy or who have no other shelter. May all who receive these quilts be wrapped in your love and compassion. May they also encounter your grace and peace and so learn of the joy of life in Christ. Renew our mission to feed the hungry, shelter the homeless, clothe the naked, comfort the weary and outcast, welcome the stranger, and be a loving neighbor to all people of the earth. In the name of Jesus Christ, we pray. Amen.

"Quilting Angels" is our newest occasional column. Share your stories of your quilting circles – how you began, number of quilts made to date, how you get your supplies, your tips and shortcuts, anything else you want to share, and photos of you and your quilts. †

Katie's Table Update

By Gloria
Martin

As Women of the ELCA, we often gather around tables. Not always our "kitchen tables." Very often the tables were in a fellowship hall, a Sunday school classroom, a restaurant, or a coffee table in someone's living room. Sometimes we even use social media as a virtual table. Our tables are as diverse as we are. We gather for Bible study; we gather to sew or to tie quilts, and to put together kits for Lutheran World Relief.

Each year, under normal circumstances, we also gather at Katie's Table, to celebrate and honor the bold life of Katharina von Bora Luther by raising money for The Katie's Fund Endowment.

We will gather again at Katie's Table at our 2022 convention. Continue collecting children's books, romance novels, and devotional books that are "in good condition" and store them until we can again meet in person. †

My Lenten Journey

By Terry Chongulia

Then Jesus was led up by the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted by the devil. He fasted forty days and forty nights, and afterwards he was famished. Matthew 4:1-2

Lent is about making our minds and hearts ready for the sacrifice Jesus made and to then celebrate the hope from His Resurrection.

Usually we Give something up.

Attend mass and pray.

Set goals for ourselves to help those in need.

Many of us are doing these things in some manner despite the challenges posed by the pandemic. This past year, I have been fighting depression through discipline.

We are already on our Lenten journeys for 2021 which I hope will bring healing physically and spiritually for us all. Last year rained lemons. Ironically, it was during lent when the lock down and isolation began in earnest. We all did what we could to protect ourselves and our loved ones from the SARS CoV-2 virus. Hopefully, some of you are now vaccinated since the Moderna and Pfizer vaccines were released in late December. During this past year, many of us gave up going to church, eating out, socializing, shopping in person for fun, going to movie theaters, playhouses, and musical venues. On the flip side, many businesses suffered, people lost jobs, and those involved in the arts were devastated by the imposed silence, me included. Making music with a group is an experience you cannot duplicate on zoom...

So basically, I feel like I have been in Lent mode for over a year. I'm tired. Really tired. And I'm starving. I thirst for social experiences; I hunger for playing violin in the orchestra again. And I need spiritual nourishment to balance it all.

This year I think reflecting on what we have been through will have more meaning for appreciating the sacrifice made for us. I still have hope. It is a tiny flame, but I am guarding it with all my might. The things that diminish it in our world like hearing people spew hurtful words or divisive posts on social media are harmful to the psyche and spirit. So, filter those things out. Center yourself with routine that is positive.

What did I choose this Lenten season? Exercise every day.... Burning calories, generating endorphins...ok, I am doing it playing beat saber on my oculus quest but I am killin' it!!!

Most of us suffer from COVID 10...Ten pounds heavier.

I am giving up the perception that my family cannot function without me. It is a mindset change...I plan to keep it.

I am giving myself permission to take care of me so I can take care of others better. It is not about us as individuals but caring for the whole community and all the circles of people you are involved with. But it starts with "me". My attitude. My resolve. My labors of love.

We will get through this journey in the desert and be better for it. Do not be tempted to fall back on your old ways of thinking when we resume some sense of normalcy again. We still need to be more thankful, considerate, and kind to one another. We still need eyes that see the injustice around us and ask ourselves, "how can we help?" We need to continue to love one another....

So, know you are not alone in feeling that you have given up things for more than just forty days over this past year. Flip it and use it to remind yourself how important we are to one another and how important you are as well.

We are an Easter people!!!!

"We do not pretend that life is all beauty. We are aware of darkness and sin, of poverty and pain. But we know Jesus has conquered sin and passed through his own pain to the glory of the Resurrection. And we live in the light of his Paschal Mystery – the mystery of his Death and Resurrection." Pope John Paul II November 30, 1986

"We are an Easter People and Alleluia is our song!" We are not looking for a shallow joy but rather a joy that comes from faith, that grows through unselfish love, that respects the "fundamental duty of love of neighbor, without which it would be unbecoming to speak of Joy." We realize that joy is demanding; it demands unselfishness; it demands a readiness to say with Mary: "Be it done unto me according to thy word."

That is lent for me and I am sticking to it. †

In-Kind Gathering

By Sissy
Gifford

As we all know this pandemic has turned the world upside down. It has impacted every life in some way. Most of us have either had Covid or someone in our lives whether it be a friend, co-worker or family member has had it. Masks are now a way of life and many people are still afraid to resume their lives. Many churches are still closed but trying to persevere with streaming services, which are nice but not really the same as being with your church family worshipping. Businesses had to close which increased unemployment and even though for a while the government subsidized larger unemployment payments that came to an end.

The results of all this are that there is a greater need for basic items especially food. Our Gifts in Kind charity, MUST Ministries, have stepped up in trying to make sure everyone in their giving area has enough food to eat. MUST Neighborhood Pantries have been giving out a ton of food a day to those in need. This is all made possible by private donations of food and money. If you go to their website, they have a running sign of the items they need the most.

In addition to the pantries, they also operate the Loaves and Fishes Community Kitchen which serves lunch to approximately 100 people a day. They also feed the 72 residents of their Elizabeth Inn shelter breakfast, dinner, and a sack lunch. Feeding neighbors is a core component of MUST Ministries.

MUST Ministries as well as food banks throughout this country are working to make sure no one goes hungry. So, let us all do our part to help our neighbors that may be hungry by donating to our local food banks or to MUST Ministries. If you wish to give to MUST, you can send monetary gifts or you can purchase food items from their Amazon.com wish list. You can also use Amazon Smile when purchasing items and designate MUST Ministries as your charity.

As we work out the details of our convention this year, we will let you know how we will be donating to this worthy cause. But until then please continue to help your neighbors with gifts to your local food banks or MUST Ministries. By doing this we shine the light of God's love to others. †

Lutheran World Relief In-Gathering

By Janice Hawkins

Today and every day, Lutheran World Relief Quilts and Kits of Care are a reminder to families that even in the midst of crisis, they are not alone. We may not have been able to physically get together this past year, due to the pandemic, but there have been quilts and kits being assembled and the need for them is still great. The seven Ingatherings in the Southeastern Synod that are managed by our WELCA organization are scheduled for August 27 and 28, 2021. Schedules will be similar to what they were in years past and we hope to have all 7 locations open. Everything is being finalized and more information will be on the Southeastern Synod WELCA website, LWR Ingathering webpage, and in the summer Weaver.

We will need to follow CDC guidelines that will be in place in August. This means all volunteers and donors dropping off items may need to wear masks. It might require that donations be dropped off by appointment so there are fewer people together at the same time. Look for more information to come in the next Weaver and to be sent out by email. There is an Ingathering webpage on the LWR website and information will be posted there as soon as it is available (late May). †

The masks will be distributed with upcoming international shipments of personal care kits already scheduled for fall to individuals in vulnerable communities and are not intended to be a replacement for medical grade personal protective equipment. Remember, Thrivent members can apply for funds to engage in the activity of making face masks: <https://www.thrivent.com/making-a-difference/living-generously/thrivent-action-teams/>.

For more information about the materials needed to make a cloth face mask and where to find them, go to <https://www.lwr.org/masks#9290>. Watch for a final tally in the coming weeks, as well as updates on where your masks are going and who they are helping. Unfortunately, the tracking system will not be available for homemade face masks.

Prayer Bowls - Exploring Prayer Paths and Finding Your Way to the Presence of God

By Shirley Connelly

Prayer ... finding that quiet, intentional time each day to spend time with God, to hand over all your concerns, ask for healing for someone in need or to give someone the strength to carry on.

We are all well intentioned and we plan to spend time each day in prayer, but our day escapes us and before we know it, another day and an opportunity to be in the presence of God has slipped away.

I was searching for a gift one day and stumbled across a pretty item on the internet – a prayer bowl - it was simply a ceramic bowl with a bible verse printed on the rim and some note cards that you could drop in the bowl to remind you to pray for someone. I thought “what a nice idea”, it could sit on a table and be a constant reminder to set aside time for prayer. I did give one to my friend but then I thought I would like one and saw a bowl that I’d had for years and decided that I would use it as my source for prayer inspiration.

Over the years, I had tried fads and other tactics to prompt me to make time for myself for prayer – like Oprah’s idea to set up a quiet corner in a room of the house to go to, or putting a dot on my watch – but the problem with those ideas were that I had to alter my normal behavior – I didn’t go to the quiet corner, I don’t wear a watch, and when I’m working in my garden, I’m thinking of my plants and how quick can I get done. But the prayer bowl... for some reason this was so simple – it was right in front of me and it was right for me. When I sat down to relax or to watch a little TV, read a book or just close my eyes, I would see the bowl and I would pick it up and before doing anything else, the desire to be in the presence of God would wash over me, and I would share my concerns and ask for healing or strength for those in need and it felt good. It was simple, it was right in front of me, and it was natural ... for me. I hope this idea offers you an approach to developing a richer prayer life. †
